

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A control device stores a shifting history of a cursor displayed on a control panel of a controlled device. When a "determination" key of a remote 5 controller is manipulated, the control device sends operation information representing the shifting history of the cursor, and the controlled device controls a function corresponding to the operation information.